

Ladies' Parlor Off Main Dining Room

Cozy Corner for Women Patrons on Main Floor

Fontenelle Grill and Cafe Opened

The Fontenelle grill and cafe, both on the ground floor, the floor below the main lobby, opened for business yesterday.

Both were crowded and relieved the pressure on the main dining room, that was filled at noon with a crowd made up principally of Omaha's society folk, a number of the leaders being recognized among them.

Both the grill and the cafe are beautiful rooms, characterized by that quaint plainness of the mediæval and old English type. Omaha men seemed to accept them unaniously.

Registration of guests at the hotel has been very large.

BABIES FACE RUSH OF DEATH

Obering Mother, Tiny Boy Holds Sister's Hand as Train Hits Them.

Four-year-old Charles Morse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Morse of Main street, Madison, N. J., had been told by his mother not to let go of the hand of 2-year-old Elizabeth Tetrefsky, who has been visiting at their home. So, when an eastbound Lackawanna train bore down on them this morning, Charles held his little friend's hand tightly. And both were struck and hurled high in the air, landing fortunately on a bank of sand. The little boy's collarbone was broken.

and the girl suffered minor cuts and bruises on the body. They were both taken to Overlook hospital, Summit, where it was said they would probably recover.

The children wandered on to the track just as the train pulled out of the station. The locomotive was brought to a standstill a few feet from the spot where the children were struck, and the youngsters were placed aboard and hurried to Summit, where an ambulance had been called by telegraph to take them to the hospital.—New York Sun.
